

Juli Ponce is a Law Professor at the University of Barcelona, where he has been Assistant Dean and Director of the TransJus, the transdisciplinary research institute at the Law School. He was Director of the Public Administration School of Catalonia too.

He holds a Juris Doctor from University of Barcelona Law School (extraordinary doctoral Prize 2000 and his book Deber de buena Administración y derecho al procedimiento debido, 2001, published by Lex Nova, received a prize as one of the three best European Doctoral thesis of 2001, according to the European Group of Public Law). He also holds a Master of Arts from the Academy of Public Law (European Public Law Organization). Before finishing his PhD, he was researching at the Harvard Law School thanks to a scholarship, where he also attended the 31st Program of Instruction for Lawyers.

He is a member of the European Group of Public Law and the European Network for Housing Research. He has been a visiting professor and has lectured at the Universities of Georgia State (Atlanta, U.S), Sheffield (UK) or Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú, among others

Juli Ponce is a frequent speaker on Public Law, good governance, the right to good administration, the better/smart regulation, the prevention of corruption, zoning, urban planning, and housing law. Dr. Ponce has published in several prestigious academic journals throughout Spain, Europe, United States and Latin America. Ponce's consulting, research projects, and lectures have been developed at different Universities and public administrations.

Some of his works in English can be found here. He has edited and written in a collective book published in English by an American academic publishing house as well as in a special issue in English too of the journal *Revista de Derecho Urbanístico*, both with a transdisciplinary and international perspective in relation to housing and land use.